23. Etching by Schiavonetti after William Blake, 'The Death of the Strong, Wicked Man', illustrating Robert Blair's The Grave, 1805.

64. Mourning Rings: (from left to right) 1788; 1790; c. 1795; late 16th century; 1764; mid-17th century; Gold, some enamelled and set with miniatures, human hair and precious and semi-precious stones.

In memory of all forgotten.
May only death part us, yet
not eternally.

In memory of witnesses,
followers, faithless & grievers. May all their questions be answered.

In memory of all that is vain today tomorrow, and forever after.
